BAKER SUBMITS NEW FACTS IN K-TNT APPEAL

Amended Reasons Are Filed in Court at Washington

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special)—Norman Baker, of Muscatine, Iowa, owner and operator of radio station K-TNT, recently closed by the federal radio commission, has filed amended reasons for appeal in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Because of the short notice given the Muscatine broadcaster on June 5, complete pleadings could not be prepared as Baker was given only a few hours to cease broadcasting.

In the amended reasons for appeal filed with the court, a long list of errors are assigned and the constitutionality of the radio law itself is questioned.

Among the grounds set out are that the "hearing" given Baker in October was not in accordance with the radio law because the examiner who conducted it was neither authorized to "hear" an applicant nor administer oaths.

Baker claims that the law is unconstitutional because it gives the radio commission authority to prohibit interstate communications instead of merely regulating them.

The appeal from the decision of the radio commission will probably not receive attention from the appellate court before fall as the court is not in session during the summer months.

MOBILIZE BEST MINDS—NORLIN

University President Points to Way of Ending War

BOULDER, Colo. (INS)—The principle of "everybody for himself" in this country is the cause of the world's trouble, according to George Norlin, president of the University of Colorado. President Norlin, in his baccalaureate address, compared present conditions throughout the world to a "Tantalus" one of the most picturesque examples of torture in the hell of the ancients.

"In the midst of plenty we are in want; in the midst of surfeit we lack the necessities of existence," Dr. Norlin said. "At this moment the civilized peoples of the world are either hungry or afraid of being hungry. Battering with thirst, Tantalus could not reach the cool waters which flowed about him in abundance. Ravening with hunger, he could not touch the luscious fruits which dangled at his very lips."

"To be a prosperous nation, the United States must, as it were, take out articles of incorporation as a partnership of all her citizens for the common good," the speaker continued. "Surely this is manifest now, if it has not been before. No group, no class can prosper save as it shares the prosperity of the whole; and only the Nation can heal and preserve the Nation."

"The principle of everybody for himself, or every group for itself, of every block for itself, has gone to pieces on the rocks, and we cling to whatever bits of wreckage come to hand, waiting anxiously through the night for a prosperous dawn. It is a situation which cries out for nothing less than the mobilization of the best brains of the nation, not in the cause of any group or class, but in the cause of the Nation."

Although he views with abhorrence the communistic autocracy in Russia, President Norlin pointed to it as the only government which has embarked upon "a national blueprint human engineering plan to relate production to consumption, to give work to all and put bread in every mouth."

The United States must set out to do the same things, he said, yet maintain itself as a nation of "free people."

To accomplish this, he suggested that the slogan, "more brains in government" displace "more business in government" and less government in business.

pointed out that the brains of the country, "with notable exceptions" are at the service of business and not of government, and condemned the unwillingness of "our ablest citizens generally" to stand for office.

In describing the present "intolerable condition in which only the communist can find satisfaction," President Norlin recalled that economic engineers estimate that more than 50,000,000 men, women and children are either hungry or in daily fear of hunger.

In spite of unlimited natural resources, in spite of mass production on a gigantic scale, he said, material prosperity has not distributed itself. Immense fortunes in a few hands increase; the average annual income of the wage earner, $1,500 declines.

With divorce Monday out of the way interest reverted to the marital affairs of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., who is suing Mary Weir Logan Vanderbilt for divorce.

10 DAY CIDER BILL IS VETOED

Michigan Governor Is Afraid It Will Get Too Hard

LANSING, Mich. (Special)—Gov. Wilbur M. Brucker today vetoed the Callaghan bill which would have declared cider and other fruit juices legally nonintoxicating and saleable for ten days after their manufacture.

The measure was introduced by Representative Miles Callaghan, Reed City, a dry, and was reported out by the bona fide senate prohibition commission when senators returned last week for sine die adjournment. It was backed by fruit growers of the state to protect them from the state prohibition act, which stipulates that no beverage containing any amount of alcohol shall be sold, bartered, or given away in this state.

"This amendment," declares the governor in his veto message, "would declare that cider and fruit juice, although in fact intoxicating, shall not be intoxicating within the meaning of the law. In other words possession or sale of intoxicating liquors of a certain character would be made lawful. This would amount to an attempt by the legislature to nullify a portion of the constitutional mandate and might lead to other amendments of a similar import, thus resulting in an evasion of the whole constitution itself."

The executive finds that the measure would erect a barrier to successful prosecutions involving sale of fermented fruit juices. The date of manufacture could scarcely be accurately determined, he contends, as the accused could not be made to testify against himself.

Trader Horn Dies At Home in England

LONDON. (INS)—Alfred Aloysius Horn, world famous as "Trader Horn," died at 4:55 a. m. today at his home in Whitstable. He was stricken with pneumonia two weeks ago and for the past few days doctors had held out no hope for his recovery. He was 80 years old.

Trader Horn spent practically his whole life in obscurity in Africa. In his early years he went back and forth over Veldt and through jungle with a pack on his back. He gathered little cash but a wealth of experience.

RUSSIAN BOSS MODEST, QUIET, AND A WORKER

Stalin Has Little to Say Even in Own Home

WASHINGTON (Special)—A taciturn, hard-working man who frowns on elaborate display and trick words is Joseph Stalin, who is head of the communist party which rules the 180,000,000 people of Soviet Russia. Stalin, at 51, is tall and erect, with bright eyes, a low forehead, a square chin, and a colorless voice. He thinks nothing of working 16 to 18 hours a day.

On the public platform Stalin is a very ordinary speaker who repeats his points time and again to fix them in the minds of his audiences. He dresses in colorless clothes, not unlike the uniform of a soldier, and his home, where he lives with his wife and children, is a small apartment. He is highly educated and has a remarkable memory, and his tastes in literature are of the highest standard.

Stalin actually is a lonely man—he is so by his own wish. He prefers to be alone, even in his office, and he insists on doing his own wrestling with the problems of state that require his attention. Even at home he is stolid and quiet, preferring to avoid conversation with his family.

The ruler of Russia's millions has another odd quality, too. He is a Puritan by nature. He often attacks plays, but only those of high moral standards. It is related that he once personally and publicly rebuked the editor of a magazine in which was published a small picture of a scantily-clad woman.

AGRARIAN LAW IN MEXICO IS CAUSING FIGHT

Figures Show Crops Smaller This Year Than in 1910

MEXICO CITY (INS)—Mexico's agrarian law is under fire again following a declaration in the chamber of Deputy Gonzalo Bautista of the government party that the 1930 crop represented only 28 per cent of production in 1910.

Unremitted foes of the measure immediately assailed it as the basic cause of the agricultural depression, renewing agitation for repeal of the law and the restoration of all lands to their original owners.

Without specifically admitting that the experiment had proved a failure, Deputy Gonzalo Bautista urged speedy completion of the agrarian program, blaming the startling slump in agricultural production on the uncertainty of status on the part of landholders, and agrarians. In other words, according to the deputy, the essential thing to do is to decide beyond doubt whether the system of communal landholding in Mexico will be retained as an inviolable part of the constitution or whether it will be reconstituted as a failure.

In reviewing the situation, he quoted production figures as supplied by the department of agriculture. These figures revealed that in 1910 the cereal production in Mexico totalled 4,705,789 tons. In 1930 the output fell to 1,324,529 tons.

Cereal production diminished year by year after 1910, the figures showed, with the biggest decline occurring from 1926 on. The latter year production amounted to 2,192,214 tons. In 1927 it fell to 1,928,817 tons, in 1928 to 2,172,854 tons and in 1929 to 1,514,701 tons.

That the fault lay in small acreage production—in other words with the new owners of tracts acquired under the agrarian law was indicated by the deputy's figures tracing a steady decline from 1926 in the amount of cereal kilos produced annually on each hectare of land (each 2.47 acres).

Each hectare of cereals produced 670 kilos in 1926; in 1927 the average fell to 640 kilos; in 1928 to 590 kilos; in 1929 to 517 kilos and in 1930 to 478 kilos.

The all important bean crop of Mexico totalled 336,127 tons in 1910. According to the deputy's figures, it had declined to 213,668 tons by 1929. In 1927 only 195,379 tons of beans were produced, 176,134 in 1928 and 94,806 in 1929. Production per hectare fell from 292 kilos in 1926 to 129 kilos in 1929.

Consequently Mexico was forced year by year to import wheat at high prices from the United States and Canada. This situation has become more complicated with enactment of federal restrictions in regard to foreign grain importations. Beans were shipped in by the ton from Japan.

For members, their families and friends to be held Sunday at the Zimmerman farm on the West Liberty road. The outing will be an all day affair. Roads leading to the place will be marked for the convenience of those attending.

STORIES ABOUT HOTEL BILL IRK VICE PRESIDENT

Pays for Costly Suite Himself, He Declares

TOPEKA, Kan. (Special)—Charles Curtis said Thursday it was "no one's business but my own and the hotel's" what he pays for his suite in a fashionable Washington hotel.

He made the statement in elaborating upon a telegram which he addressed to E. Haldeman-Julius, Girard, Kan., publisher, and in which he denied knowing a "Mr. Moore" or having been directly or indirectly connected with or interested in a $100,000 bond issue or any other issue.

Curtis said other vice presidents before him had been provided free living quarters but that he paid for his own.

Haldeman-Julius, in a telegram to the vice president, made public by the publisher, asked for an explanation of Curtis' connection with the "Moore $100,000 bond" deal.

"It is charged that your influence kept the hands of the department of justice tied for several years and that you shared in the spoils to the extent of $150 a day since the day of your election," the telegram added.

Curtis in his reply said he had "never used my influence directly or indirectly with the department of justice or any one connected with it to prevent investigation or prosecution in any case and I have never benefited in any way from any bond issue."

Several Indictments Returned Against Iowans

Chicago to the Mississippi river with the exception of sheriff Ward Miller of Lee county whose persistent war against bootlegging trucks finally brought about the huge organization's downfall.

Purchases Rival Ring

The key that revealed the huge syndicate was discovered by special agents C. Edson Smith and Paul B. Shoop when they made liquor purchases from the Meyer brothers, Mike and Joe, of Aurora. Other federal agents worked into the ring by making more purchases.

The inner council of the gigantic syndicate was said to be made up of Gabriel, Paul and Tony Cincinqua, said to be Capone men, Frank Richard and Russell Price of Waterloo, Iowa, and Mike Blumberg of Clinton, Iowa. According to federal men, Blumberg is the so-called "big king" of the Clinton group and enjoys the title of "the Capone of Clinton."

Sterling Man Named

Robert W. Boss, of Sterling, Ill., also named in the indictment, and formerly state's attorney of Whiteside county, Ill., permitted the Clinton group to operate heavy capacity distilleries on his farm it was said.

Anderson revealed that his undercover men working within the ring itself had learned that the Cincinqua brothers once paid an enormous fine to Al Capone's gang for operating the Whiteside stills without his permission and for failure to pay him tribute.

The Chicago group according to the indictment, was made up of the Shaw of Oak Park, John B. O'Connor of Oak Park, H. D. Carmichael, Elmer W. Schroeder of Berwyn, and Kenneth Clettenberg of Oak Park.

This group, it was said, engaged in the manufacture of high proof grain alcohol. The indictment charges a 1,000 gallon capacity distillery was raided by federal men at the plant of the Harrigan company March 3, 1931. With that evidence and other clues the federal agents connected the Chicago group with the huge syndicate.

SPACE ENOUGH FOR ALL GRAIN AVERS MILNOR

Farm Corporation Is Able to Store All of Crop

CHICAGO.—(INS)—Despite a large carryover and the prospects of a large wheat crop, there is no indication of any great shortage of storage space or any unusual congestion in handling the forthcoming crop of grain, in the opinion of George S. Milnor, general manager of the Farmers' National Grain corporation.

"New terminal and sub-terminal storage capacity throughout the country has been increased an estimated 40,000,000 bushels," Milnor said.

"Assuming that the carryover June 30 will be between 275 and 300 million bushels, approximately that of last year, and that the new crop will be as large as the crop of 1930, it is obvious that, considering the new storage, there will be more storage space in proportion to wheat supplies than a year ago. It appears certain also that farm storage facilities have been materially increased during the last year.

"As everyone knows, last year's crop of corn was approximately 600,000,000 bushels shorter than average, which, of course, means that less space was required on the farms and in terminals for corn storage than was the case last year. It probably is true that there will be less wheat on the farms and in country elevators July 1 than a year ago and correspondingly more wheat in the terminal market. If this actually is the case, then it must be obvious that more space in the country is available to the new crop.

"Fortunately a very large part of the carryover will be in the hands of the grain stabilization corporation on June 30, and therefore such stocks can and will be moved and placed throughout the country as may be advisable and necessary in order to avoid congestion. Car equipment available throughout the country is ample. Both milling and export demand will probably be good during the summer months."

Storage space controlled by the Farmers' National Grain corporation is greatly in excess of that held by the corporation a year ago, Milnor said. The total likely will be well above 20,000,000 bushels, according to estimates.

It was announced that the Farmers' National Grain corporation has completed arrangements whereby additional storage capacity of 2,250,000 bushels is being added to the Missouri-Pacific elevator at Kansas City. This will give the corporation 7,775,000 bushels capacity in that market.

Negotiations are underway, it was said, for additional elevator space in Omaha, Minneapolis, Duluth, Chicago, Denver and Spokane, a large part of which is expected to be available before the new crop starts to move.

On the Pacific coast, arrangements have been completed for storage space as follows: Seattle, 2,250,000 bushels; Tacoma, 100,000 bushels; Portland, 2,000,000 bushels; and Astoria, 350,000 bushels.

REVIEW: JESUS THE WORLD'S SAVIOR; SUFFERING AND SOVEREIGNTY

GOLDEN TEXT—For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus the Savior.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus the Savior.

Since the lessons of the quarter center in one Supreme Person and have one transcendent theme, Jesus Christ the world's Savior, the best method of review for senior and adult classes will be to refresh the mind with the principal facts and leading teachings of each lesson. The following suggestions are offered:

Jesus taught humility to the disciples by the parable of how guests bidden to a wedding should seat themselves. The humble man will take the lowest place. Those who choose the lowest places in life have a chance of promotion.

The younger son, becoming tired of the restraints of home, demanded of the father the portion of goods which he would inherit. The father acceded to his request, and after his life of profligacy joyfully received him back into his home. This act portrays the forgiving mercy of God.

The story of the rich man and Lazarus gives us a look into two worlds. In this world the rich man lived in luxury while Lazarus begged at his door. In the other world their positions are reversed.

Prayer is an obligation on the part of the believer. It is essential to spiritual life. All true prayer is accompanied with becoming humility.

Zacchaeus brushed aside all difficulties in order to see Jesus. The soul which earnestly seeks Jesus shall never be disappointed. Zacchaeus proved the reality of his conversion by making restitution.

He was saved instantly upon receiving Jesus Christ.

The Parable of the Pounds was spoken to correct the misapprehension of the disciples as to the immediate establishment of the kingdom. While the kingdom awaits establishment, it is incumbent upon the believer to use faithfully the gifts left in his hands by the Lord. While the size of the gift is a mat-

As We See It

A Blow in the Face

To a people, clinging in desperation to a waning faith in the integrity of government, two recent decisions of the federal radio commission come as blows in the face.

That an administrative body of the national government should deliberately ignore the plain mandates of the law by which it was itself created, seems so fantastic as to be unreal.

A country, which has not yet recovered from the shock of finding its highest national officers engaged in looting the oil resources of the commonwealth for private gain, can hardly be expected to overlook the spectacle of a commission arrogantly setting aside the law to favor special interests in another field.

The Radio Act of 1927 specifically directs the licensing authority, the federal radio commission, to refuse broadcast licenses to any person, firm or corporation finally found guilty by a federal court of monopolizing or attempting unlawfully to monopolize radio communications.

In a civil action, the United States supreme court refused to disturb such a finding of guilt against the Radio Corporation of America by the United States circuit court of appeals.

In spite of this final determination by the highest legal tribunal in the United States, the federal radio commission, with impunity, has decided to renew the radio licenses of the Radio Corporation of America.

It is true that two members of the commission dissented from the decision, but that is small comfort and does not affect the result.

American children are taught that this is a government of laws and not of men. Americans come to manhood and womanhood in the firm belief that all men are equal before the law—that government in the United States of America is "of the people, by the people and for the people."

It is a monstrous thing to have that faith destroyed by the very men who are chosen to sit above their fellows and administer the laws by which the people are governed.

When congress had before it the proposed radio legislation, two grave problems made themselves evident. One was, that the licensing authority might feel called upon to establish censorship of radio. Obviously, censorship of radio would violate the constitution of the United States as well as our cherished traditions of free speech.

The other problem was to so write the law that radio communications could not be dominated by a monopoly. It was evident from the inception of radio that the electrical group was out to monopolize radio in all its branches.

Congress, in its wisdom, inserted section 29 into the Act, absolutely prohibiting censorship. In order to make the provision easily understandable, even by an arrogant commission, congress said that NOTHING in the Act should be construed to give the licensing authority any power of censorship.

Certainly that was plain enough—but in the K-TNT case, the radio commission ruled Norman Baker off the air largely for things he was alleged to have said. This was censorship, in effect, under the doctrine of the famous Minnesota "gag law" decision. It was also censorship under the everyday, doctrine of common sense.

In order to protect the people from monopoly, section 18 was inserted in the law. This section directs the commission to refuse a license to any person, firm or corporation finally adjudged guilty by a federal court of monopolizing, or attempting unlawfully to monopolize, radio communications.

Nothing could be any more explicit than this injunction—yet in the Radio Corporation of America case, the commission decided to again ignore the simple facts and construe the law to permit continued domination of radio by a giant monopoly.

What are the people to think?

Only one answer is possible. When it is necessary to ignore the law to crush an independent station and stifle an unwanted voice, the commission will do it. When it is necessary to set itself above the law to protect a gigantic business monopoly, the commission will do it.

In the K-TNT case, Norman Baker was not allowed to introduce evidence as to the truth of statements made by him over the air. He was told that the truth or falsity of his message to the people was not in issue. Not once was the truth of anything said by Norman Baker questioned. The commission's examiner refused to hear both sides of the controversy and the "hearing" granted Norman Baker was a travesty on justice. It appeared to even casual observers that Baker was denied fair play.

As a matter of fact, it was the people who were denied fair play, both in the K-TNT case and in the Radio Corporation of America case.

Thousands and thousands of people wrote the commission that they wanted station K-TNT retained on the air. Other thousands, we are told, wrote the commission, protesting against the renewal of RCA licenses.

In both instances, the commission was deaf to the pleas of the listeners—yet, in both cases, the commission ruled under the guise of acting in the "public interest, convenience and necessity."

The present decade will be known to history for the development of a bureaucratic government, which became so arrogant that the people were finally aroused by the flagrant acts of injustice and arose, in their wrath, to demand a return of government "of the people, by the people and for the people" in order that such government might not indeed "perish from the earth."

The federal trade commission announces the completion of its investigation of the peanut business. A peanut investigation ought to be good for a wheeze.

Headlines in papers tell of mill owners condemning wage cuts. The employees of the same mill owners are doubtless condemning wage cuts also.

The goods which we produce in this country and the goods we obtain from abroad in exchange of goods of which we have a surplus, give us a sum total of goods sufficient to supply the needs of every man, woman and child in the country, according to information laid before the Iowa Bar Association. But no one seems able to tell what to do with the money to distribute the goods around.

Our Platform for the People Is:

1. Less taxation.
2. Fewer State Commissions.
3. Universal school books.
4. Lower freight rates.
5. Return of river transportation.
6. A cleanup of some state institutions.
7. More efficiency in public offices.

The Power of Mind Over Body

By NORMAN BAKER

(Ed. Note: What follows is an installment of an article by Norman Baker which began in the June 24, issue of this paper. An installment will be published each day.)

"Again, either chloroform or ether are nauseating. Patients are always faint and sick after coming out from under the influence of the drug. We dare not give either water or food in some cases for many hours after they are brought out of the influence as it would start them vomiting. Lyons drank water in less than 15 minutes after the operation and ate his dinner at noon. According to Dr. G. C. Cloudy, it is possible that an operation performed with the patient under hypnosis would be more likely to result in a secondary hemorrhage. The contracting of the veins, through the suggestion of Lousenheimer, might lead to this, he said.

gers amputated without anesthetic or without being under any influence. Dr. E. G. MEYER—I have heard of varicose being treated without the use of anesthetic by quacks. In such operations, however, only a needle was used and no incision in the scrotum was made. There is a good bit to this hypnotism. Just how much, though, I cannot say. I never saw or heard of such an operation as that by Dr. Brant done without anesthetic.

That anesthesia can be produced by suggestion is now an established fact. The operation described in the May issue of TNT was performed at the Ingleside hospital, Canton, O. It is regrettable that these details were inadvertently omitted in the April issue, as this omission may have caused some to doubt the authenticity of this case.

It would insult the intelligence of the average physician to assume that he doubted the power of suggestion, but the average layman is not so sure. Many are the cases wherein convinced except by his actual experiences. It is the intention of this article to point out the way by which all who are interested may practice this great and beneficial science which today is practiced intentionally by only a few, but by millions unconsciously.

Many are the cases wherein cripples and paralytics confined to chairs or beds and convinced that they could not bear the weight of their bodies on their limbs, have arisen suddenly and walked in moments of great excitement. Many cripples are confined to their chairs solely because they fail to make proper use of their limbs. They do not suffer from broken bones or any disruption of the muscles; still they refuse to walk. This is because they think they cannot.

FARMER BROWN'S BOY SUBPRIZES DIGGER

By Thornton W. Burgess

Now you would suppose that having been caught away from the safety of his home once that day that Digger the Badger would have kept very close to his own doorstep the rest of that day. But perhaps you have forgotten his stomach. A stomach, you know, is such an important thing. Sometimes it even tempts to argue with Peter Rabbit, who says that our stomachs are the most important things in the world, and are the cause of most of the troubles of life. "For it wasn't for our stomachs," says Peter, "we wouldn't have much of anything to worry about. At least I wouldn't and neither would any of my neighbors of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest. But every day we have to think about how we are going to fill our own stomachs and keep from filling the stomachs of other people. If it were not for their stomachs, we would have nothing to fear from Reddy and Old Granny Fox, Old Man Coyote, Hooty the Owl, Red Hawk, and some others who could name it. It is all on account of their stomachs that they hunt us. Sometimes I wish there were no such things as stomachs. Then everybody would be friends with everybody else."

It was the stomach of Digger the Badger that was the cause of getting him so far away from home a second time that day. You see he hadn't time to catch a good breakfast when Old Granny Fox led Bowser the Hound over where he was hunting. While he was giving Bowser a scare he quite forgot his empty stomach and trotted home quite content to sit on his doorstep and chuckle with satisfaction over the way he had frightened Bowser and under the plans of Granny Fox. But if Digger was content his stomach wasn't. It was empty and it wanted to be filled. It was so insistent that by just thinking of it he felt hungry. So once more he started out after that delayed breakfast, and because he could find nothing near home he was forced to go quite a distance.

Now, it happened that Farmer Brown's boy took it into his head to go down the Green Meadows that morning, and in the course of his walk he came in sight of the home of Digger the Badger.

"There's a fellow I know very little about," said Farmer Brown's boy, talking to himself. "He is so shy I never have been able to get a good look at him. I believe I'll lie down here a while and see if he won't give me a chance to see something of him."

So Farmer Brown's boy laid down in the grass where he could watch the home of Digger the Badger, yet be himself unseen. For a long time he watched and digger sitting on his doorstep seemed quite content with the world. All the time he kept wishing that Digger would go hunting. He had just about given up hope when Digger got up, yawned, stretched, and then sat up and looked this way and that way over the Green Meadows. Farmer Brown's boy lay perfectly still and he felt sure that Digger didn't see him. And Digger didn't. He started off after that late breakfast and Farmer Brown's boy began to creep toward Digger's home. When he felt sure that he was near enough to get there before Digger possibly could, he jumped to his feet and ran so as to get between Digger and his home. Then he started toward Digger.

Now, Digger had been so busy hunting that he hadn't seen Farmer Brown's boy. In fact, he didn't see him until Farmer Brown's boy was quite near him. Then he heard his steps and whirled about to see that Farmer Brown's boy was between him and his home. Instantly he dropped flat in the hope that he hadn't been seen. But in a minute he saw that he had been seen and that this was of no use at all. What should he do? He couldn't scare Farmer Brown's boy the way he had Bowser the Hound. It was of no use to try. Besides, he was afraid. Yes, sir, Digger the Badger was afraid. He hadn't feared Bowser, but he did fear Bowser's master. There was no place to run to. What should he do? He had been surprised away from home, and now he had to get out of his scrape the best way he could. Digger took one good look

People's Pulpit

People's Pulpit—

We subscribed for the Midwest Free Press—because it is an independent daily. Sent in our order two months ago. We are extending our subscription today. Who can help feeling love and admiration for our Norman Baker, who is willing to give his time, strength, mind and soul in fighting the great monopolies that continually oppress the common people—especially the farmers?

We are praying for the return of K-TNT and we're writing a letter to the Radio Commission, too. We believe we must both work and pray. Do you? Please write the letter, won't you? My father belonged to the G. A. R. He was never in one of those dreadful prisons, but when he often told us stories of Andersonville and Libby, he and the whole family were there in sympathetic imagination. How proud we can justly be, who are the sons and daughters of the men who sacrificed and suffered and bled and died to end this land of slavery! What an indomitable spirit breathed in Norman Baker's father! Since reading his story, we know that the fearlessness and determination of his son, are a direct inheritance from the father. Oh for a million men today, who, like him, dare to stand in a minority! If that minority stands for RIGHT! Really, he stands in a very large MAJORITY! The greater part of which either because it is bound, or because of ignorance or lack of daring, who does not stand at all. LET US ARISE!

Good Health Club

"Short Circuits" (Daily Evening Times)

In a previous article, the body was compared to a radio. Also a brief idea of the way the human body picks up different vibrations according to the state of health of the individual was given. Diagnostic machines have been invented with which it has been possible to measure the different degrees of health and disease, showing that vibrations and wave lengths vary in different diseases and that the different diseases always have the same wave-length. In this way it has been possible to identify the disease each time, wherever it is found. Working on the theory that the nuclei of the cells composing human tissues are the positive or negative parts of the cell, and that a film of oil (called lipid) separated these nuclei from the surrounding cytoplasm (alkaline) or negative portion, it has been found that a condition of acidosis in the body causes a short circuit between the positive and negative portions of the cell, thereby lowering the potential energy of the cell. It has been found that the hyperacidity of the diseased person penetrates and disintegrates the lipid film which normally acts as an insulation between the positive and negative parts of the cell. In other words, the acid toxins of disease and ill-health destroy or pollute the alkaline portion of the cell, and a state of hyperacidity is created within the cell, and the normal acid-alkali potentiality of the cell is upset. It can be readily seen that if the normal vibration of a single cell can thus be upset, the results from a system of conditions, wherein the whole body is hyperacid, that the reserve, or potential energy, is vitally upset and also diminished.

Acid toxemia or lowered vitality is a very common ailment. The battery of an automobile will quickly run down if a bare wire touches other metal due to the at Farmer Brown's boy and then he began to dig.

JUSTIFIABLE PREJUDICE
Most snakes, I'm told are innocent. And cherish no malign intent.

To set upon us from beneath. And strike us with their venomous teeth.

For long this coiling, writhing race Has held a very evil place.

Because some members of the gang Are black of heart and swift of hand. And when they meet us on the pike Will never hesitate to strike.

The genius we should not condemn Because a very few of them May cherish a dislike for man. And will destroy him if they can.

But there is something in their stare The while they rear their heads in air.

Which, though our judgment be unjust, Breeds in our minds a deep distrust.

And though their eager friends may claim That they deserve a better fame,

The average self protecting man Will kill one every time he can.

Learn to Know the Right Word

By W. C. Nicholson

ARE YOU READY?
Are you ready for the Summer Test? It will be the most interesting of all. An idea of its character will be found in the next installment of "The Right Word."

Jack J. Sones of Spokane, Wash., asks if "that" is necessary in "I should appreciate any advice." The Right Word could give me. The correspondent also wishes to know if "Please advise me what to do" is correct, and if "only" is placed properly in "I am only going to take off my hat and coat."

"That" is unnecessary after the word "advise" in the first sentence. In the second sentence, the right word is "advise," not "advise." In the last sentence, "only" should follow "off," as I am going to take off only my hat and coat. Good!

A certain person, who does not care to have his name mentioned, wishes to know what part of speech "near" is in the following sentence: "He lives near the river. It is a preposition. He or she who wishes the same information with regard to "like" in the following sentence: "She looks like her mother. Again a preposition. The last sentence submitted by our correspondent contains another preposition "like," as, "He is like his father. Finally, in answer to another question, the verbs "burst, burst, burst" and "set, set, set" are regular and irregular, the latter being regular. Charles C. Peterson, "fancy shot champion of the world," recently took his billiard table aloft in an airplane and established a unique consecutive billiard shot record that almost equals the one he made on the ground. While the ship was 5,000 feet in the air, he clicked off 100 points in 26 1/2 seconds. He scored 80 points in the center of the table while the plane was banked at a 38 degree angle, traveling 100 miles per hour.

Peterson, competing in the southwestern championship held in St. Louis, 1907, played in the fastest billiard match on record. It lasted but 36 minutes, Peterson beating Maggioni, 300-88.

Another record held by Peterson is that of scoring 1,000 points in 4 minutes.

BROWNS UPSET DOPE WITH TWO WINS OVER A'S

Earnshaw's Winning Streak Shattered
In First Game

By LES CONKLEN
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK—There were several dents today in the legend of invincibility surrounding the Philadelphia Athletics, as the result of the feat of the lowly St. Louis Browns in coming from behind yesterday to beat the Mack team, 6 to 5 and 8 to 5. The three outstanding features of this modern miracle were:

1. It was the first time the A's had lost both ends of a double bill since September, 1928.

2. By winning the last four games of the series, the Browns handed the A's their fourth consecutive defeat this season.

3. The victory of the Browns in the opener shattered George Earnshaw's winning streak of twelve straight games.

Kress Gets Homer

A homer by Kress with two on base, and two doubles by Goose Goslin ruined Earnshaw in the nightcap. The Browns pounded four Philadelphia hurriers while Walter Stewart went the route for St. Louis.

In the other standout of the way Denny Vance, Brooklyn mound ace, held the Cardinals to three hits but qualified as president of the hard luck club by losing a 1 to 0 duel to Paul Derringer, St. Louis rookie.

After the first twenty St. Louis haters had been retired in order, George Watkins, the home run hitter, bunted, went to third on Bottomley's single and scored by a sudden dash when Vance tried to catch Bottomley napping at first.

Cards Increases Lead

This heartbreaking (for Brooklyn) game may have an important psychological effect on both clubs. It was almost a duplicate of the Cardinals' 1 to 0 victory over Vance last September, which climaxed the drive of the Cardinals for the pennant and broke Brooklyn's back.

The Cardinals are now 4½ games in front of the Giants, who were whitewashed by Benny Frey of Cincinnati, 6 to 0. It was the Reds' first win over New York this season.

Washington nosed out Detroit, 4 to 3, due to the wildness of Sorrell, who issued seven passes. The Senators now are only one game behind the Athletics.

Chapman Homers Twice

The three leading home run hitters performed their specialty. Chuck Klein of the Phillies hit his 19th homer as Clise Dudley set down the Pirates, 5 to 1, in the first inning of 1 hour and 19 minutes. Lou Gehrig got his 17th circuit clout and Babe Ruth his 16th while the Yankees were making it five straight from Chicago by downing the White Sox twice, 10 to 9 and 9 to 2. Ben Chapman, however, was the batting hero with two homers, the first winning the opener in the ninth.

The White Sox have won only three of their last 22 starts.

Boston's Braves, with Frankhouse on the mound, nosed out the Cubs, 4 to 3. Hack Wilson's miff of an e. c. fly let in the winning run.

Bob Kline, Gargantuan rookie, pitched the Red Sox to an 8 to 3 win over Cleveland, squaring the series. Scores by innings:

DEMPSEY SAYS BEST MAN WILL WIN RENO BOUT

'Prize-Fight' Rules Explained to Fans by Ex-Champion

RENO, Nevada. (INS) — "When Paolino and Max get into the ring July 4 it's going to be a case of the best man winning."

Jack Dempsey, promoter and referee of the fight, made this declaration today in explaining the rules that will govern the "prize-fight."

"Both must fight it in to be, for under the Nevada law there is no such thing as a boxing contest, they are all 'prize-fights'."

As far as this particular event is concerned, the Nevada law is plain and that "everything legitimate goes."

"By that I mean that Straight Marquis of Queensbury rules will prevail," Dempsey stated.

No Fences Barred

"The recent boxing rules against rabbit punches, head punches, and everything but deliberate fouls will be laid aside when those two get into the ring."

"But I don't mean to imply that this is going to be a rough-house or that deliberate fouling will be tolerated."

"Neither fighter, however, can claim victory on a low blow."

"Both must protect themselves with cups that will prevent injury from that species of foul."

"Other types of deliberate fouls, such as hitting an opponent while he is down or while seated in his corner, will be dealt with by me from the ring."

And here is a point that might be of interest to boxing commissions of other states.

"Forfeits Purses on Foul

"The articles of agreement provide that while neither fighter can claim the decision on a foul, the one committing a foul can be made to forfeit his entire share of the purse," Dempsey pointed out.

"That fact alone, I feel, should not only prevent fouls, but should be the type that tears in and slugs from bell to bell."

Plenty Hot Argument

"Neither has ever been knocked out nor knocked off his feet in the ring, and in view of the fact that both seem to be rounding into perfect condition, I expect it will be a plenty hot argument."

"As for it's going the limit, well, we'll see about that a week from tomorrow."

Anyway you look at it, the fight promises color and plenty of action, which will be viewed by boxing commissions of three states, if the officials from Illinois, New York and California accept Sir Jack's invitation to be his guests at ringside and learn how a "prize-fight" is conducted.

Buzz Arlett, always a powerful hitter in the Pacific Coast league, and the sensation of the National league batsmen this season, never has led a league in hitting though he has been playing since 1917.

Ad Liska at his own suggestion was suspended a month without pay by Washington club so that he might take treatments at home for his sore pitching arm.

Jim Bottomley and Jim Collins, both star first basemen with the Cards, were on the injured list at the same time.

Mexico Will Open the Door to Scenic Splendors by New Roads

MEXICO CITY (INS)—Completion of Mexico's new system of modern highways will open to the American motorist a paradise of scenery combined with rare thrills. As practically all of the roads ribbon through the heart of Mexico's mountains and creep in cork-screw manner along precipitous cliffs, this prospective vacation land can hardly be recommended to the timid motorist. The least bit of poor judgment on the driver's part in many spots would plunge the car a mile down the sheer side of a cliff.

Even the seasoned and apparently fearless motorist who plans to venture over the Pan-American highway next year, for instance, will have to pause for breath occasionally. On one summit in the state of Hidalgo, he can cool his car while looking over the narrow valley some 10,000 feet below him. Near Jacala, a narrow turn leads him around a cliff with a drop of 7,000 feet. The highway has an average width of twelve feet.

Travel bureau officials here recommended that motorists intending to venture over the Pan-American highway into Mexico next fall should first make a thorough study of the region through which they must pass. Extra equipment, an extra supply of water and gas as well as a moderate amount of food should be carried along. A knowledge of Spanish would help considerably.

But the motorist who is willing to accept these handicaps will find himself richly rewarded. Natural scenery of majestic splendor, still harboring in invaded isolation the tribes, customs and cultures of other centuries, greet the traveler on every hand. The natives in most regions are timid, but eager to sell to the visitor their home-made pottery, blankets, shawls and the like. The traveler from Laredo to Mexico City will find many side roads branching off the main highway and leading to localities historically famous. There is Saltillo, an interesting old Spanish city, and nearby the fantastic caves of Guadalupe. On the way to Ciudad Victoria the highway passes through the Canyon of Huajuco to the village of Santiago, the Horse-Hair Falls and the immense orange groves of Aliende and Montemorelos.

Further on there is the famous silver mining town of Pachuca, heart of the region where the ancient Aztec emperors filled their treasure houses with silver. From there a riot of mountain scenery leads the way to Mexico City.

South of the capital along the Pan-American highway is located Ixtacchihualt, a snow-clad volcano which towers 17,000 feet into a turquoise sky. Rio Frio, once a notorious bandit lair but now a huddle of shacks and roadside stores, is also located along the new route.

The tropical country is reached after a long downhill swing through the state of Oaxaca down to the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. The region is famed for its beautiful women, who cling to their ancient costume of richly embroidered blouse and skirt of red and gold. Their head-dresses of lace are unique. From there on the stretch to the Guatemalan border, is an extremely hot one.

Another interesting highway to the motorist is the road which leads to the fashionable Mexican resort of Cuernavaca, situated 5,000 feet above the sea. This tilting town was once the residence of Herman Cortez, who built his palace within view of the two volcanoes Popocatepetl and Ixtacchihualt.

Kit Carson—5. Kit's First Indian Fight

—By J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

AFTER YOUNG KIT CARSON HAD JOINED THE TRAPPERS ON THEIR WAY INTO THE GILA COUNTRY HE LEARNED WITH CONSIDERABLE SURPRISE THAT HUNTING BEAVERS WAS NOT THE ONLY OBJECT OF THE EXPEDITION. THEY HAD SET OUT TO PUNISH A HOSTILE TRIBE OF INDIANS LIVING ON SALT RIVER WHO THE SEASON BEFORE HAD MURDERED A NUMBER OF WHITE HUNTERS. THE TRAPPERS MOVED WITH GREAT CAUTION AS THEY APPROACHED SALT RIVER.

A FEW DAYS LATER KIT WAS ONE OF A PICKED PARTY THAT STOLE FORWARD JUST BEFORE DAWN TO ATTACK THE INDIAN CAMP, WHICH ONE OF THE SCOUTS HAD LOCATED IN A NARROW CANYON. KIT WAS TENSE WITH EXCITEMENT.

AT A SIGNAL THE RATTLE OF RIFLE FIRE ROUSED THE ECHOES IN THE CANYON. THEN CAME WILD YELLS AND ANSWERING SHOTS AS THE STARTLED REDSKINS EMERGED FROM THE LOGGIES AND DASHED FOR THEIR PONIES. THE CANYON RANG WITH THE DIN OF BATTLE.

THE SHOOTING CEASED ABRUPTLY. A FEW INDIANS LAY DEAD IN THE CANYON, WHILE THE REST OF THE BAND RACED OFF IN HEADLONG FLIGHT. THE TRAPPERS DID NOT PURSUE. THEY HAD SETTLED THE SCORE. KIT HAD BORNE HIMSELF WELL IN HIS FIRST FIGHT.

GRAINS CLOSE MUCH STRONGER IN CHICAGO PIT

Corn Market Finishes Day Higher; Oats Are Upward

CHICAGO (INS)—Grains closed stronger on the Chicago board and trade today with active buying and short covering in corn featuring the session.

The corn market closed the day 1 1/2 to 2 1/2¢ higher with a broad trade. Speculative interest showed increase in view of hot, dry weather over the belt.

Wheat finished 1/2 to 1 1/2¢ higher, oats 1/2 to 1 1/2¢ better and rye 1/2 to 1 1/2¢ up. More favorable political news from abroad and the strength in the corn and securities enabled all grains to gain ground, after a slightly easier start.

After a steady opening, grain prices moved up rather sharply with corn leading. The latter cereal was more than 2¢ higher around mid-session with active buying and short covering on hot dry weather over the belt. Offerings were rather light.

Wheat started steady to 1/4¢ lower, later eased further with selling on weakness abroad and advice that Russia was offering new wheat for deferred shipment. After the first hour, however, values climbed in sympathy with securities, firmness in corn and bullish crop advices from the northwest spring wheat belt.

Harvesting of new wheat is reported making rapid progress in the southwest owing to fine weather and movement is increasing. The Liverpool wheat market was 1/2¢ lower and Winnipeg 1/2¢ down. Continued high temperatures over the belt caused considerable apprehension among traders in the belt caused considerable apprehension among traders in the oats pit. Values advanced as much as 1¢. Offerings were scarce. Rye followed section in hot dry weather.

Estimated carlot receipts were: Wheat 40, corn 230 and oats 13. ## A Wonderful Opportunity Exists Here for More Real Energetic Folks to Enter and Carry on to a Victorious Finish.

TO THOSE WHO HAVE ENTERED—What are you doing to insure yourself of one of the really BIG Prizes in this distribution? Are you doing YOUR part—or are you sitting back and hoping your friends will do it all? Up to now the majority of the votes that some of the candidates have received have been cast by subscribers who have been coming into the office casting their votes to the credit of some one of the nominees. This should not be the case when the value of all the prizes is considered. Every candidate should be doing his or her utmost toward making THEIR prize as big as possible. If your friends see that you are doing YOUR part, they will jump in and help you pile up a winning vote total; if, however, they see you are unappreciative and are expecting your friends to do it all, they will throw their support elsewhere. It's up to you, candidates. DO YOUR PART—your friends will do theirs.

TO THOSE WHO HAVE NOT ENTERED—To you who are still considering the Distribution, RIGHT NOW is the time to send in your name and make your name known. You never had—nor ever will have—such an opportunity for making BIG MONEY quickly WITHOUT INVESTMENT OR RISK as you have in this $10,000 Distribution. Clip out that nomination coupon; see that it reaches the Campaign Department immediately. YOU ARE GOING TO REGRET IT IF YOU DON'T. Remember this statement. And ACT NOW!
